

Figurine from the Cucuteni culture of Romania, 4800–3000 BCE

Feminist Perspectives on Theology Winter-Spring Program

The Feminist Theology Study Group continues into the winter and spring of 2023. We look forward to your joining us. ALL are welcome to any or all of the sessions.

- Sunday, January 29, 12:00–1:30 PM, Edna Jones Assembly Room: Discussion of THE RED TENT by Anita Diamant conducted by Tiffany Hill. This bestselling novel is the story of Dinah, daughter of the Biblical Jacob, who is raised by her four mothers—Leah, Rachel, Zilpah, and Bilhah: a retelling of a familiar story from the perspective of the women who are largely left out of the original. Also check out the Biblical story: Genesis chapters 25-35. Register with divinefeminine@usquu.org.
- Sunday, February 26, 12-1:30 PM. Edna Jones Assembly Room. BIRTHING THE WILD FEMININE WITHIN; THROUGH MISCARRIAGE, ADOPTION, AND CHILDBIRTH by Esther Wyss-Flamm. Published in Awakening the Feminine Divine, compiled by Laura J. Cornell, PhD, 2021. The article will be distributed to those who register by Feb 15 at divinefeminine@usquu.org. Then please join Esther for a lively discussion about connecting with our innate feminine wisdom.
- Sunday, March 19, 2023, 12-1:30 PM. Edna Jones Assembly Room. THE CAILLEACH: THE ENERGY THAT DANCED THE UNIVERSE INTO BEING by Justy DeForest. Learn more about this divine figure in Gaelic history, an ancient hag associated with creation, the landscape, and wild weather. Jointly sponsored by The Feminist Theology Study Group, Earth Spirit Circle, and Elderhood. Register with divinefeminine@usquu.org
- Sunday, April 23, 12-1:30 PM. Edna Jones Assembly Room. Discussion of the book SISTERS IN THE WILDERNESS by Delores Williams. Rev. Cheryl M. Walker will lead. Drawing on the biblical figure of Hagar, Williams finds a prototype for the struggle of African-American women. Also suggested reading is the Biblical Hagar story: Genesis 16 and 21: 1-21.